Church of England School – The following is a summary of Her Majesty's Inspector's report for the past year.

“A very different complexion had been put upon the work of this school, particularly among the younger children, who form the majority of the scholars. The attainments of the two lower standards are now decidedly creditable, and the infants have been carefully taught. Good order prevails. Grammar and geography are very fair, and much improvement is shown in needlework”.

The Diocesan Inspector stated: “The children are certainly improving, but there is still room for improvement, especially in the points recommended by me”.

The managers specially congratulated Mr and Mrs Thatcher on the report. The buildings have been thoroughly repaired.
