Alvediston

ALVEDISTON, a township and parish, in the hundred of Chalk, 14 miles west of Salisbury, 7 east of Shaftesbury, and 8½ south-east of Hindon, in the Tisbury union, Hindon division, Salisbury bishopric and archdeaconry, and Chalk deanery, South Wilts. Alvediston is difficult to access by carriages, as it lies for the most part in a deep bottom or hollow, on the left of the turnpike-road leading from Salisbury to Shaftesbury, from which the usual mode of approach by pedestrians is the ascent by means of foot holes, in the almost perpendicular northern side of White Sheet hill; the great exertion consequent upon which is compensated by the beautiful commanding view of the surrounding country obtained, before making a nearly sudden descent on the opposite side of the hill into Alvediston below. In this neighbourhood begins a lofty down, known as White Sheet Hill, extending till it nearly reaches the city of Salisbury, a distance of 15 miles. On the summit of this hill, and along the whole of its length, formerly ran the turnpike-road to Salisbury and London. The living of Alvediston is a vicarage, incorporated with Broad Chalk and Bower Chalk, in the patronage of King's College, Cambridge. The great or rectorial tithes are taken by the College; the value of Alvediston alone is £400 yearly; the value of the smaller, or vicarial, tithes for Alvediston, taken separately, is £80 annually; the incumbent is the Rev. Rowland Williams, D.D. The church of the Blessed Virgin Mary, an antiquated structure, has a nave, chancel, and a tower containing 3 bells; the font is of great antiquity, said to be Norman. The population, in 1851, was 278; there are 2,564 acres of corn and down land. The Earl of Pembroke is lord of the manor.

Letters are received through Swallowcliff, via Salisbury. The nearest money order office is at Shaftesbury.
