

The Night Coach. [After Rowlandson.]

ACCIDENTS

1856

Accident at Bemerton On Thursday last, as a young man, named Lush, in the service of Mr. George Truckle, of Bemerton, near Salisbury, was about to discharge his master's gun, which had been incautiously overloaded, the barrel suddenly bursted, and shattered his left hand so seriously as to render immediate amputation necessary. Salisbury and Winchester Journal, Saturday, 27 September 1856