

In The News

Compton Chamberlayne

1655 RISING RECALLED

Latest pamphlets include:-

Penruddock's Rising, 1655. By A. H. Woolrych. Three hundred years ago John Penruddock, of Compton Chamberlayne, and a dozen other men paid with their lives for their failure to raise the west country in the name of King Charles II against Oliver Cromwell. This pamphlet is devoted to the colourful events of the 1650's and in particular to this episode, which still claims an essential place in the records of the English Revolution.

Historical Association, 59a Kennington Park Road, London, S.E. 11, 5s., post free (3s. 6d. to members)

(The Times (London, England), Monday, July 22, 1968)

