

Plumbing tools of the 19th century

FISHERTON ANGER, SALISBURY

WM. ATKINS, Plumber, Painter, and Glazier, begs leave to inform his Friends and the Public, that he has succeeded to the business of the late Mr. JAMES MILLETT, and humbly solicits a continuance of the favors conferred on Mr Millett, assuring them that no exertion shall be wanting on his part to merit the same.

ANN MILLETT, Widow of the late James Millett, avails herself of this opportunity to thank her friends for the liberal support her late husband experienced from them, and to recommend to them, as his successor, Mr. WILLIAM ATKINS, for whom she solicits a continuance of their favors, which she is confident will meet with every attention.

FISHERTON ANGER, May 27, 1826.

Salisbury and Winchester Journal, 29 May 1826