

Something Like a Treat

Thanks to the kindness of Mr. Rhind-Tutt, the children on the school register were recipients of a great treat on Boxing Day. Their entertainment consisted of a very sumptuous tea and a bioscopic exhibition of pictures unique in character and excellence, the intervals being filled up by melodies from a fine gramophone.

The rector at the conclusion paid a warm tribute to the kindness of the donor of the entertainment, and proposed three cheers for him and his family, which were very heartily accorded. At the conclusion of the entertainment each child was presented with four little gifts, and every member of the audience felt that a very memorable evening on Boxing Day had been spent.

Salisbury Times, Friday, 29 December 1905

OPC Note:

A bioscope was a name for an early type of movie camera.