Evening School Concert

On Friday evening the school was crowded at a concert given by the scholars of the evening school. All of the soloists acquitted themselves well, especially as it was the first time they had sung in public. Miss Beckett, an old favourite, sang two beautiful songs in a faultless manner, and Messrs. Hatfield, Lever, and Lathey also sang with much acceptance. The duet "Larboard Watch" was well rendered, and the trio "Dame Durden" brought down the house and was vociferously redemanded. Mr. W. Mundy played his violin solo in his usual correct and tasteful manner, whilst Mr. S. Plowman ably accompanied throughout. The instrumental quintet by Misses Gough and E. Plowman and Messrs. S. Plowman and W. and F. Mundy was capitally rendered, while the pianoforte solos of Miss D. Young and Miss Maggie Gough were well executed. The programme concluded with a farce, entitled "The Persecuted Policeman," in which troubles of a constable's life were well portrayed by ten of the boys dressed as policemen, the remainder being pedestrians giving unnecessary trouble and asking unnecessary questions.
