

Accident on Holloway Hill

An accident happened on Saturday on Holloway Hill, to a man named Hezekiah Painter, of Hankerton. He came into town, as was his custom to do some shopping for himself and neighbours. He had a donkey and cart, and by some means the animal took fright and bolted down the hill. In trying to turn a corner near the engine house the shaft caught the wall and broke, throwing Painter out of the cart with a barrel of beer upon him, and cutting his face and head. Dr. Jennings was called in and attended the poor fellow, who was conveyed home in a fly. It was feared that concussion of the brain would set in, but on Tuesday he was reported to be progressing favourably.

Swindon Advertiser and North Wilts Chronicle, Saturday, 11 August 1877