

Homington Primitive Methodist Chapel, rebuilt in 1877

Primitive Methodist Chapel News Reports 1841-1967

1892

At the Primitive Methodist Chapel, on New Year's Eve, Mr. Case, of Fisherton gave the children a tea and subsequently a magic lantern exhibition, depicting the lives of David and St. Paul and views of Palestine.
Salisbury Times, Friday, 1 January 1892

1904

On Sunday the friends celebrated their harvest festival. Sermons were preached morning and evening by Mr. G. Penny and collections were taken. The chapel was tastefully decorated with flowers, fruit and vegetables, given by friends. On Monday a service was conducted by the Rev. G. Litten. The decorations were subsequently sold and a part of the proceeds, 10s., sent to the Salisbury Infirmary.
Salisbury Times, Friday, 16 September 1904

1909

A very successful meeting was held in the above chapel on Wednesday evening in aid of the Sunday School Clothing Club, a goodly number being present. The chair was taken by Mr. W. Rothary, and both the singing and recitations given by the scholars and friends were all that could be desired, while a reading by Mr. W. Hewlett was very touching. The following assisted in the programme: Recitations, Misses Elsie and E. Humphries, N. and F. Young, B. D. and F. Parsons, solos, Misses F. Parsons and D. Parsons; duets, Mr. and Mrs. W. Hewlett, Messrs. W. and E. Hewlett; quartette, Misses B. Parsons and E. Humphries and Messrs. E. and W. Hewlett.
Salisbury Times, Friday, 22 January 1909