Hullavington

HULLAVINGTON is a village and parish within the parliamentary borough of Cricklade, in the Northern division of the county, Malmesbury union, county court district and hundred (except the tithing of Surrendel, which is in the hundred of Chippenham), diocese of Gloucester and Bristol, archdeaconry of Bristol, and rural deanery of Malmesbury north, 5 miles south-west from Malmesbury, and 7 north-by-west from Chippenham. The church of St. Mary consists of a chancel, nave, aisles, and porch; it was restored in 1871, the tower, owing to want of funds, has not yet been rebuilt: the interior shows marks of considerable antiquity: the porch, arches, columns, and other parts are Transition Norman: in the chancel the window is a three-light lancet: the north aisle contains some very good Early English windows of three lights, with Purbeck marble shafts: here is a very curious piece of mediaeval embroidery, originally a cope, now used as a Pulpit cloth; on a brown satin ground are stitched various embellishments worked in gold and silver thread, in the centre is a representation of our Saviour on the cross, with an angel on each side receiving the blood in a chalice; the rest is covered with figures of saints, cherubin full of eyes, and fleurs-de-lys. The register dates from 1694. The living is a vicarage, yearly value £260, including 85 acres of glebe land, in the gift of Eton College, and held by the Rev. Richard Thomas Powys, M.A., of University College, Oxford. Here is a school on the National system; also places of worship for Baptists, Independents and Primitive Methodists. Green's charity of £3 per annum is for the education of poor children. The manorial rights and rectorial tithes, as well as most of the land, belong to Eton College: Sir John Neeld, bart., is lessee. The soil is brashy, on rock. The chief crops are wheat, barley, and oats. The area is 3,121 acres; gross estimated rental, £5,122; rateable value, £4,722; and the population in 1871 was 734.

SURRENDEL is a tithing, a mile and a half west, with 35 inhabitants.

Parish Clerk, Joseph Ralph.
