

Knook

Lord Heytesbury has during the week caused to be very liberally distributed among the poor of Heytesbury, Knook and Tytherington, a quantity of good blankets and warm wearing-apparel, suitable to the present season; an act of benevolence which had been for many years past the custom of the late deeply-lamented Lady Heytesbury, whose great kindness and extensive benevolence to the poor will never be forgotten by them.

(Salisbury and Winchester Journal – Saturday 9 January, 1847)