

Inquisition

Lydiard Millicent

Giles Webbe Gentleman

Inquisition taken at Marlborough, 29th August, 2 Charles I [1626], before John Foyle, esquire, escheator, after the death of Giles Webb, gentleman, by the oath of Richard Hirschcoke, gentleman., William Ele, gentleman., John Milles, gentleman., Thomas Smythe, gentleman., William Westborne, gentleman., Simon Oatridge, Richard Shermore, Thomas Hytchcock, Sylvester Cooke, Nicholas Hibbard, William Parrett, Nicholas Knapp, Thomas Whiteheade, Edward Jones and Thomas Trebredd, who say that

William Webbe, gent., deceased, father of the aforesaid Giles, was on – February, 7 James I [1610], seised of the manor and capital messuage of Liddington Millicent, with appurtenances, co. Wilts, and being so seised by his will dated 8th February, 7 James I [1610], devised the lands and premises aforesaid, in Liddard Millicent, Shawe, and Bradon, co. Wilts, to Giles Webb, his son and his heirs male, with remainder to Ambrose Webbe, another son of the said William, and to his heirs male; remainder to William Webbe, son of John Webbe, deceased, another of the testator's sons, and his heirs male; remainder to Robert Webbe, another of testator's sons, and his heirs male; remainder to Benedict Webbe, another of testator's sons, and his heirs male; ultimate remainder to his own right heirs.

William Webbe, died at Liddiard Millicent, 14th February, 7 James I [1610].

The manor and messuage aforesaid are held of Sir Richard Grobham, knt., as of his Hundred of Highworth, co. Wilts, in free socage, by suit of court there, to be made by the payment of 15s. per annum in the court aforesaid, and are worth per annum, clear, £5.

Giles Webb died 10th December, 22 James I [1624]. Christopher Webbe is his son and next heir, and at his father's death was aged 18 years and more.

Inq. p.m. 2 Charles I, pt. 1, No. 37. "Abstracts of Wiltshire Inquisitions Post Mortem," 1901, edited by George S. Fry & Edw. Alex Fry.