

The New Inn, Monkton Deverill, c.1905. (Copyright of Wiltshire Treasures)

TO be LET, and entered on at New or Old Lady-day,

All that well-known PUBLIC HOUSE, situated at Monckton Deverill, in the county of Wilts, being on the main road leading from Maiden Bradley to Hindon, and from Mere to Warminster, with good brewing and underground cellar, and excellent water, with stabling sufficient for 30 horses, with liberty to brew their own beer.

The Cask's and Fixtures, with a small quantity of Furniture, to be taken at a fair valuation.-- For further particulars and to treat for the same, apply personally on the premises, or to Jas. Dredge, brewer, at Horningsham. Taxes very low.

-- An industrious man, of good character, will meet with every encouragement, as no industrious man has lived there for the last eight years.
