

Inquisition

Salisbury

William, son of Hugh de Ipple 1303

Inquisition taken at New Sarum..... feast of St Lawrence, 31 Edward I [1303], before John de Hergrugg, sheriff of Wilts, by the oath of Robert Bede, Edmund Falbe, William de Wyly, William le Maresschall, Hugh Sireman, John le Prout, Peter de Woelef, ..... Werylond, John le Frye, John Chaunteclere, Geoffrey Waryn, and Nicholas le Hordene, whether it be to the damage of the King or others, if he should grant to William son of Hugh de Ipple that he may give and assign one acre of land in Bymerton to William de Ipple, parson of the church of Fugheleston, to hold to him and his successors, parsons of the said church, for ever, or not who say that

It is not to the damage of anyone except only if William le Espicer, of New Sarum, of whom the said acres is held for one penny of silver or yearly rent for all service, by which penny excheats, wards, and marriages might happen to the said William. The said acre is worth per annum, clear, 2s. There remains to the said William 100s. of land per annum in the county of Southampton, which he holds of the King in socage.

Chan. Inq. p.m., 31 Edward I, File 44, No. 21

“Abstracts of Wiltshire Inquisitions Post Mortem,” 1908, edited by Edw. Alex Fry.