

The Royal Naval College, Portsmouth c1850

Naval Cadet First Class, William Henry Ludlow Cale

Amongst the successful candidates at the recent examination at the Royal Naval College, Portsmouth, appears the name of William Henry Ludlow Cale, eldest son of the Rev J Henry Gale of Milton, near Pewsey, and grandson of the late Mr Ludlow Bruges of Seend, as first class naval cadet. The above gentleman, who was one of the youngest under examination, and who took good place in order of merit, had been educated entirely at the Royal Free Grammar School at Marlborough, and is indebted for his success to the preparation he received at that old established Wiltshire school.
