

Crime and Punishment

Sutton Mandeville

BREACH OF THE PEACE

Ann Johnson, of Sutton Mandeville, was summoned by Susannah Mead, of the same place, for using threatening and abusive language, thereby provoking a breach of the peace, on the 30th ult. Complainant said the defendant made use of very abusive language to her, and threatened to split her skull. Defendant was ordered to pay the expenses of the summons.

(Salisbury and Winchester Journal – 15 July, 1871)