

The National School Urchfont c2009

Entertainment by School Pupils

On Friday evening last a most instructive and amusing entertainment was given in the Schoolroom by the children attending the National Schools. The programme, which consisted of pianoforte solos, songs, recitations, dialogues, &c., was without exception well rendered; some of the children showing marked ability which is seldom found in children so young. Great credit is due to the Master, Mr. Lamburn, for bringing the children to such proficiency, as it must have taken considerable time and patience to do so. Mr. J. T. Snook who so kindly teaches the children in singing, accompanied the songs on the piano. At the conclusion of the programme, the Rev. C. M. Cocks proposed a vote of thanks to those who had given them such an enjoyable entertainment, and especially to Mr. Lambourn and Mr. Snook for taking so much interest in the children and learning them what would no doubt be of great use and benefit to them in future years.
