

Rifle Volunteers on the March

14th Wilts Rifle Volunteers. This company paraded, fully equipped, for marching out on Friday, the 13th inst., when there was a very fair muster. Headed by the band, they marched to Barford, where at the Green Dragon, they partake of some refreshment. On their return to Wilton, after dismissal, they proceeded by invitation to the Pembroke Arms Hotel, where other refreshments were set before them by Host Motton, by order of the noble captain.

The Captain Commanding requests that no member will wear their great coats or any portion of their uniform for any other purpose than for the purpose of drill and target practice.

By order.
