

Elderly gent out walking

Death of Laban Crook

Laban Crook, of the above village, died on Wednesday last, in his 90th year, having survived his wife, with whom he lived in the same house for 63 years, only eight months.

Up to the time of his death, he was quite well and scarcely ever known to complain of any ailment, and was able to undertake the journey to Marlborough on foot.

Wiltshire Independent, Thursday, 11th December 1862